get to know each other, share strengths and weakness, show commitment and follow through	processes, objectives, roles, concepts and plans	troubleshooting, reframing, and real life roadblocks	timing, tempo and adjusting to the unknown	scheduling, agendas, tasks and timelines	questions, ideas, needs, decisions and appreciations	set goals for completion, reflection, closure and celebration
Get to know the person you're working with and how to work with them.	Now that you've learned how they work, find out how to work WITH them in a proactive and healthy way.	Mistakes and challenges will happen, keep your mind open and control of yourself.	Feel when things are clicking and the partners are in sync, but also acknowledge when things are off and regroup together.	Determine what works for the partners, when tasks need to be complete and who is doing what.	Keep up on obvious and general communications in emails, zooms and texts.	Have a way of knowing the project is over and reflect on it to continue to learn from your experiences.
